DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Group II, claim 3 in Paper No. 7 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 3 refers to the thickness ratio of 18-35% twice. Is there a difference, or is this redundant?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Brown et al (US 4,854,150). Brown teaches tubular workpiece with a thickness ratio of approximately 24% (col. 8, lines 33-38). Brown also teaches peening the workpiece to withstand stress corrosion cracking (col. 14, lines 46-55). The process limitations of electroseaming, hot state or warm state are not considered to give structural definition over the article of the prior art.

•Art Unit: 1775

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Inoue (JP 2000-233625). Inoue teaches a hollow stabilizer with a thickness ratio of 20-27 % and further teaches shot peening and rust preventive painting. The process limitations are not considered to give structural definition over the article of the prior art. The process limitations of electroseaming, hot state or warm state are not considered to give structural definition over the article of the prior art.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Siecinski et al (US 6,206,392) in view of Brown et al (US 4,854,150). Siecinski teaches a stabilizer bar having a diameter of 18-50 mm and a thickness in the range of 10-25% of the diameter. These ranges include a thickness ratio of 25% (4.5 thickness/18 diameter). Siecinski does not teach shot peening of the bar. Brown a hollow stabilizer bar having a similar thickness ratio to that of Siecinski and further teaches peening the workpiece to withstand stress corrosion cracking (col. 14, lines 46-55). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention topeen the stabilizer of Siecinski in the manner taught by Brown to provide a bar with the ability to withstand stress corrosion cracking.
